

BIBLE COMMANDS SINGLE TAX,

WRITES MRS. GOLDZIER, AND ASKS
HEARST TO BE MOSES.Puts It Up to Him to Help Unite Christian
Scientists and the Henry George Folk
—New Ideas in Book From Jersey
—Author's Version of the Lord's Prayer

When New York becomes thoroughly bored and worn out in its struggle for something new to think about and concludes that after all life is made up of investigations, subway jams and Harlem flats, New Jersey lets loose one of her newest ideas. Her latest thriller comes from Bayonne, and is a book written by a New York club-woman, who tries to prove that Christian Science and Single Tax are one and the same thing, and that W. R. Hearst is the Moses of Scriptural fame come to life.

Mrs. Julia Goldzier, an equal suffrage advocate, wrote the book, which she entitled "The At-One-Ment of Single Tax and Christian Science." This is the second edition of the book. The first was stopped by the Christian Scientists, who alleged that Mrs. Goldzier's work was an infringement on Mrs. Eddy's copyrighted "Science and Health." Mrs. Goldzier says that she has procured the copyright for the second edition by "treating with Christian Science" and by including in it a chapter addressed to "Moses," W. R. Hearst and Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy.

The advance notices, thousands of which have been circulated in the men's political clubs and among clubwomen, have on the cover in big type this question: "Have you heard I wrote a book?" In the advance sheets she compares Hearst to Moses of old and Mrs. Eddy of to-day, and has this to say of Moses:

"Mr. Hearst, editor of papers all over the United States, is worthy of being placed beside the Rev. Mary B. G. Eddy, and in answer to any doubt I will quote Shakespeare:

"He then chafes as free, as pure as snow—
—Toss shall not escape calumny."

She says, too, that "Mr. Hearst did not see this letter yet," and hopes some one will call his attention to it. She asserts that the Ten Commandments command single tax; that the Lord's Prayer prays for single tax; that Christian Science tenets are in derogation of it; that the Bible is a history of single tax, and that Mrs. Eddy's book, "Science and Health," is an exposition of Single Tax.

Mrs. Goldzier begins her ovation to "Modern Moses, Hearst," in this manner: "I come to you because I need help, and you are the one to give it. Of old the poor, the lame, the blind and deaf came to you for healing, and to-day all who know you come to you for advice and healing."

Then Mrs. Goldzier goes on to claim feats almost as marvellous as those of Moses, and adds: "And the end is not yet. To tell that would need a pen like Henry George's when he describes 'Moses' how that great leader freed the Israelites of old, and it would need a prophetic vision like Peter's when he said, 'Thou art the Christ, the son of the living God.' Pen and vision fail me!" Now will you be good, Moses?

After reciting a long list of things New Moses has found, she says he will find a way to help her unite the Christian Scientists and Single Taxers. After acknowledging the great help Ella Wheeler Wilcox has been to her in her work, Mrs. Goldzier accredits the Poetess of Passion with a great "faith in the good the Modern Moses accomplishes." In the good the Modern Moses accomplishes, she would like to see a constant contributor to his papers. Ella Wheeler Wilcox gets a steady income for her constancy, but Mrs. Goldzier overlooks a little thing like money.

"Politics is a mode of God," Mrs. Goldzier asserts, and refers to land ownership as "that most royal woman on the scarlet-colored beast to whose hand is the golden cup of adulteries—the mother of all abominations," and, too, "Single Tax (like W. R. Hearst) was made in the image and likeness of God."

Here is the Single Taxer's Lord's Prayer as interpreted by Mrs. Goldzier:

Our Father which art in heaven (heaven meaning harmonies and all harmonies include political economy), hallowed be Thy name, (truth is Thy name, and Truth is Single Tax and Christian Science). Thy kingdom come. (The reign of Single Tax is Thy kingdom). Thy will be done, on earth as it is in heaven. (Single Tax is the law and the will of God on earth). Give us this day our daily bread (it takes a Single Taxer to know that man lives from hand to mouth, and to give us our debts as we forgive our debtors (as soon as the Single Tax is in operation all debts will be forgiven and forgotten). Lead us not into temptation (Single Tax would eliminate the worst crimes and poverty and temptation would disappear). For Thine is the kingdom, and the power and glory forever (All of which means Single Tax).

Mrs. Goldzier belongs to the Women's Democratic Club, and she has told that organization that all Democrats are unconscious Single Taxers, to the Equal Suffrage League, to whom she has told that may be they don't know it, but the basis of their belief is laid on Single Tax, and to the Political Study Club, where she said that everything from race suicide and the marriage ceremony to arbitration, divorce laws and political bosses would be straightened out by the institution of Single Tax.

ROBBERS ATTACK NURSE.

Bereans Cause Arrest of Running Man
—Shows Her Skill in Station House.

Policeman Dunn of the West 100th street station was standing at Amsterdam avenue and Ninety-third street about 2 o'clock yesterday morning when he heard a woman scream. The sound seemed far away, and Dunn jumped on a car and rode north to Ninety-ninth street. There he discovered that the screams came from Columbus avenue, and he ran thither. Half way between Ninety-ninth and 100th streets on Columbus avenue he saw a woman struggling with two men.

The men ran toward Central Park, with Dunn in pursuit. Dunn captured one of them just before he reached the park, but the other man disappeared in the scrubbery. Then Dunn went back to the woman, who was bleeding badly from her nose and mouth. She said she was Agnes Hopkins, a nurse, of 138 East Fifteenth street. She said she had received a professional call from a physician living on 102d street early in the evening and was on her way home. She had reached Columbus avenue and, seeing no car, decided to walk along the avenue until one overtook her.

Just below 100th street the two men jumped out of a doorway. One man held her while the other struck her violent blows in the face. She screamed, and the men tore her handbag from her, ripped it open and took two dollars from her purse. At this point Dunn appeared.

Miss Hopkins went to the station house with Dunn to make a formal complaint.

The doorman helped her wash the blood from her face and dress. While she was thus engaged a car drove up and a man who had several scalp wounds. The doorman was about to send for an ambulance, when Miss Hopkins said it was a shame to get a doctor out of bed for such a little thing and she offered to fix up the man herself.

"Go ahead," said the sergeant, ordering the doorman to get Miss Hopkins the station house medicine chest.

The way she shaved off the man's hair, washed his wounds with an antiseptic and bandaged them up with gauze made the men in the place sit up and take notice. Then she smiled a good night to all the men, thanked Policeman Dunn again for his timely help and was put safely aboard her car by him.

Dunn arraigned his prisoner in the West Side court later in the morning. He said he was Joseph Quinn, 27 years old, of 803 Amsterdam avenue. Miss Hopkins was too much used up by her experience to appear in court, and Magistrate Baker held Quinn in $500 bail for examination on Monday.

IN BED IN HIS BOOTS.

Dr. Carew (Cap With a Warrant) Diagnoses
Ex-Jockey's Case With a Water Pitcher.

Mrs. Sarah Duffries, who lives at 109 East Sixty-third street, complained in the Yorkville police court that her husband George had abandoned her and refused to contribute to her support. She said that Duffries, who used to be a jockey, had rooms at 115 East 110th street.

Magistrate Whitman issued a warrant for the man and Detective Carew of the court squad was sent to serve it. Mrs. Duffries told the detective he would have trouble in catching her husband, and he had. He sent a number of messengers to Duffries' flat to make inquiries, but each time it was said the man was not at home.

He saw a man answering the ex-jockey's description enter the house on Friday night, and he followed and rapped at the door. "Mr. Duffries is very sick and is not able to see visitors," said the woman who came to the door.

"I know it. I am Dr. Carew. I have been sent by one of my friends to see him," responded the detective.

The woman hesitated, and then led him into a bedroom. When he was in bed with the clothes covering him to his chin, but a shoe protruded from under the clothes at the foot of the bed.

"What's the matter, Duffries?" asked the detective, who wasn't sure whether it was the ex-jockey or not.

"I'm sick," was the reply.

"You look it. Put out your tongue," went on the detective, who looked wide and wondered what he should do next.

"What's the matter with me, doctor?" asked the man in bed.

"Let's feel your pulse," responded Carew, and he caught the man's wrist and found he had his coat on. Pulling off the bed-clothes he saw that the man was fully dressed in his street clothes. The man began to roll and twist about in bed.

"He's got a fit," cried out the woman.

"I know that," pitched the doctor, and he pulled the man's head out of the bed.

The man got out of bed before he received a moving. When he was arraigned in court yesterday his wife said she would use it if he gave her $5 a week for her support. He promised to do this and the Magistrate discharged him.
